Important Guidelines For Travel Grant Award

- Due to present COVID - 19 pandemic situation the IEEE 5NANO2022 travel grant award winners, if not participated physically this time (2022) can avail the travel grant award for the forthcoming IEEE 5NANO 2023 conference provided, if registered for IEEE 5NANO 2023 conference which is scheduled on 27th & 28th April, 2023 at Mangalam College of Engineering, Ettumanoor, Kottayam, Kerala, India.
- The faculty member selected for the travel grant award must have been associated in teaching or guiding research projects in Nanoscience & Nanotechnology.
- While the conference organizing committee is interested in reimbursing travel expenses for travel grant award winners from the distant cities/towns, budget limitations may permit reimbursing these expenses only to some extent. Hence aspiring candidates for travel grant award are advised to opt for these reimbursements only on the need basis as your genuine discretion would help organizing committee to award travel grant to more aspirants.
- Travel expenses for reimbursement will be calculated as per shortest route of travel: by AC 3-Tier in Train/flight up to a maximum of Rs.5,000/- or actual (whichever is lower) for faculty, by AC 3-Tier/Sleeper class in Train/AC bus up to a maximum of Rs. 2,000/- or actual (whichever is lower) for students. Travel grant award winners are required to make their own accommodation arrangement.
- It is imperative that the travel grant award winners should attend tutorials and presentations on all days. A record of attendance would be maintained for the same. Lack of attendance may cause the reimbursement to be disapproved.
- Identity card showing their affiliation is a must to get the reimbursement.
